"One of the very best secondary schools in the South."—Prof. Walter Miller, Tuamne University.

The Sixth Annual Session will be held October 2, 1905.

The Pensacola Classical School furnishes the elements of a sound education.

It offers every advantage for preparation for the best colleges, universities and scientific schools in the country.

Its instructors are thoroughly equipped teachers in the departments of work in which they instruct.

The pupils received are limited to such a number as will insure a careful supervision of the work of each.
The individual is the unit of instruction.

Student Laboratories for students of science.

A large, well-equipped gymnasium and a systematic course in physical culture insures a healthy growth of the body to accompany and strengthen the mental development.

Why send your son or daughter away to college before properly prepared for college work, when every advantage for learning and more personal attention are offered here at home?

Mrs. Frank G. Renshaw will remain north with her children until she can enter her daughter in school in Washington.

Miss White of Geneva, Ala., who has been visiting her uncle, Capt. W.
H. Baker, and family at Fisherville for several weeks, accompanied his daughter Mrs. John Caro and children to the country where they are spending September.

Capt. and Mrs. Pyne of the navy yard have a son-born ten days ago.

The revenue cutter Hamilton made a brief call in port yesterday but left immediately on patrol duty.

Hon. John E. Stillman is now in Duluth and will probably go to Wankeshu for a few days before returning South.

"Talk about being in clover," said one young man to another yesterday.
"You ought to go down on the bayshore. There are more pretty girls down there than you ever saw together in town."

"So you've been 'in clover'?"
"Clover. Me? No, sir. It's those girls that are 'in clover' bless you.
Why, they're having the time of their lives. They are happy as birds and as free, and they know it, too, consarn
'em."

Tallahassee True Democrat: Miss Genevieve Perry Parkhill, daughter of Hon. C. B. Parkhill, who has been enjoying a most delightful tour of Europe with a party of former students of Converse College, Spartanburg, S.
C., (where she graduated with high honors at the last term), arrived home on Tuesday of this week to become, after her long absence, a permanent member of Judge Parkhill's charming family. Her long-expected advent in the social arena of the Capital City will doubtless be welcomed with many pleasing attentions.

MR. AND MRS. BELMONT DINE ADMIRAL AND MRS. DICKINS.

Hon. and Mrs. Perry Belmont entertained at their home in Newport, R. I., Sept. 11, in honor of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Francis W. Dickins, sometimes guests being present. These guests included Rear Admiral Stephen B. Luce, U.S.N., and His Honor Mayor Boyle, and others. A portion of the service used for the dinner was that presented to Commodore Perry by the merchants of New York and Boston, as a token of their appreciation as American citizens for the services Commodore Perry had performed in securing the treaty between the United States and Japan.
About the estate were many former belongings of Commodore Perry, which were bequeathed to his grandson, Hon. Perry Belmont, which were looked over with marked interest by the guests of the evening, who after dinner went forth to look upon the illuminations on shore and adroit, incident to the celebration of Old Home Week—Army and Navy National.

LIEUTENANT BRYAN IS GETTING ALONG NICELY.

Lieut. J. L. Bryan, U. S. R. S. who was so seriously injured while aboard the cutter Porosore a few days ago, is getting along very nicely considering the nature of his injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan have the profound sympathy of their many friends in this city and elsewhere in the recent loss of their beautiful and bright infant son and the accident to the Lieutenant coming just at this time proved a very severe blow to his young wife. However, she has rallied bravely and is devoting herself with characteristic self-forgetfulness to her husband and everybody will be pleased to learn that it is hoped and expected that he will be ready for duty in a week or so.

ENOUGH TO TURN BETSY
OVER IN HER GRAVE.

It is enough to make beautiful, wilful, ambitious Betsy Patterson turn over in her grave to read that her son is a "farmer!"
"Wancy one and the same man being at once a Patter on a Bonaparte and a farmer!"
Never! A planter possibly, but—farmer? Never!

And yet, a writer in the Country Calendar says:

"During seven months of the year, from May to December, Charles J.
Bonaparte is a farmer. Bella Vista, in a fine Maryland grass valley, is his chosen country seat, where he arises on week days at 5:30 a. m., without being called, and whence, after taking a look over the place and giving his orders for the day, he is off on his fifteen-mile drive into Baltimore before most of 'city folk' have opened an eye. The drive to the office and back takes place nearly every week day. Mr. Bonaparte reserving Sundays and occasionally Saturdays for Bella Vista, when he enjoys roaming about the place with his overseer, looking into the welfare of the numerous inhabitants, both man and beast. He takes his thirty-mile drive with a different team and driver each day. He is a fresh-air crank, and no doubt goes at his big problems with keener zest because of that whiff of the fresh, sweet atmosphere of an early summer morning. The coachman can testify that Mr. Bonaparte is a silent companion, sitting lost in reverie upon the back seat of the surrey, where, perhaps some day a big naval conflict will be fought and won. Mr. Bonaparte does not expect his farm to pay dividends.
It is his plaything, his hobby, his fountain of youth. For, in spite of more than fifty summers, he is a vigorous, active man, who carries the care of public life lightly upon his strong shoulders. And to his fine

IN PRAISE OF
THE ADMIRAL'S WIFE.

"Mrs. Dewey, the wife of the admiral," says Washington Life, "has always been a popular woman, and this popularity is the sincerest tribute to her good sense and to her womanly sympathies. Recently she has bound the South more closely to her by the return to the proper authorities of the flag of the 28th Alabama regiment, which was captured by Mrs. Dewey's first husband, Gen. W. B. Hazen, and was until recently in the possession of his widow. When the War Department recently returned the standards which had been fought under years ago, their action concerned only those which were public property and naturally made no provision for the banners held by individuals. By returning the one she possessed, Mrs. Dewey has set a sensible and magnanimous example, and one which redounds infinitely to her credit. The Alabamians have received with much gratitude and praise for the admiral's wife the flag under which they fought more than a generation ago, and all the parties to the restoration are far happier because of it."

Those who know Mrs. Dewey personally have not usually referred to her as "popular," though she is "much sought after." Mrs. Dewey could no more achieve personal "popularity" than can her brother Mr. J. R. Mc-Lean owner of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mr. McLean gives more money, or its equivalent, to the poor of Cincinnati than any other one man is known to give. His employees dis-burse money, kindness and generous publicity, to all sorts of good work in his native city, and "The Enquirer" is the most "popular" paper in the Ohio Valley but—no stretch of imagination could present Mr. McLean personally as "popular."

And, that same intangible "something" that has prevented men who recognize his great philanthropy from voting Mr. McLean into the governmental chair of Ohio, clings about every member of the McLean family, and will prevent any member from achieving personal popularity. If we may speak of popularity as achievable. For the moment the public gets the idea that a man or woman is "planting seeds to grow popularity," that moment the blight comes—justly or unjustly.

The American people are always very human if not always very humane, and are much more likely to "take to" the outspoken—"the public" type of fellow citizen than to the man or woman who is merely generous, sensible or even magnanimous.

Mrs. Dewey is a social queen by right of birth and fortune, whose social position is unquestioned but, she is not, never will be and could not be "popular" because, with all her noble generous gifts she gives so little of herself.

Woman at Her Worst.

In every sense the most objectionable dress ever worn by English women was that of the early sixties, writes Harry Furniss in the Gentlewoman.
I defy any lady to appear refined in the correct fashions of that period. I was just old enough to look at them in picture books and gaze in my perambulator at the common objects of fashion with infantile astonishment. The hair stuck out at the back of the head, as a chignon or bun (really resembling a loaf), surmounted by a little black turban with a feather stuck in it; tight fitting purple jacket, strapped and crossed with black or red braid; pantlers of gray color—bright yellow, say-—on which were worked startling patterns in red braid; short full skirt—say of red—with wide upright stripes of purple braid; a red parasol, yellow gloves and violet boots completed a costume that our gentlemen once wore!—Pall Mall Gazette.

Origin of Dog Days.

According to the generally accepted doctrine, the dog days begin on July 3 and end on Aug. 11, but there have been disputes as to every possible point about them. It was universally agreed that they were connected with the dog star. But which one—the real dog star, Sirius, or Procyon, the little dog?
Then there were disagreements as to the particular astronomical performance of the star that fixed the dog days, as to their number, which varied in different estimates between thirty and fifty-four, and whether they were to be reckoned before, after or around the star's performances. The forty settled on precede the rising of Sirius with the sun. A belief grew up that in these days dogs went mad, but terrestrial dogs have really nothing to do with it. The original belief was that the star and sun together brought intense heat and all sorts of plagues.—

WHY MERCHANTS SHOULD ADVERTISE IN
THE WEEKLY JOURNAL

The attention of merchants and advertisers in general is directed to the fact that The Journal's WEEKLY EDITION is now read by practically every reader in the county outside of the city who does not take the daily.

Advertisements in the DAILY reach practically all of the city people and a large part of the country people; but an advertisement in both the DAILY and the WEEKLY will reach all of them—both city and country.

THE WEEKLY JOURNAL is a compilation of the local and telegraphic news which has been published in the daily during the week, and it reaches every subscriber in time for him to read on Sunday.

No Pensacola merchant who desires the country trade can afford to stay out of The Weekly Journal.

It is mailed to subscribers for $1.00 per year, and practically every voter in Escambia county reads it.
